OUR WEEKEND CARD

Issued every Wednesday, the Weekend Card is our flagship publication offering professional updates, views and recommendations from Marten Julian, Jodie Standing and Ian Carnaby. They will also be joined by guest contributors throughout the season.

The importance of continuity is the heartbeat of this service.

Marten's horses to follow for the Jumps Season (his Premier List) will exclusively feature in the first edition of the Weekend Card for the new season on 15 November.

Marten believes these horses have the requisite attributes to yield a profit to level stakes by the end of the season. There are updates every week on their progress with any forthcoming entries.

The hugely popular Sleeper Section contains his select list of a dozen horses, which evolves through the season, comprising of unexposed horses that Marten has reason to believe have not yet revealed their full potential.

Marten's Dark Horses are introduced and discussed, as and when they have entries, in Marten's Look Ahead feature, with updates and informed comment.

This section, as before, is coupled with the Retrospective – Marten's appraisal of how the previous week's selections, both winners and losers, performed.

THE POINT-TO-POINT RECRUITS 2023/24

Get ahead of the crowd this Jumps season.

Jodie Standing's highly acclaimed book The Point-To-Point Recruits – a publication focusing on horses that are set to debut under Rules!

Meticulous in her quest to give her readers an edge in the bumper and novice hurdle division, Jodie has searched the Irish and British pointing fields and handpicked 100 horses that she believes showed significant potential to progress for their new connections.

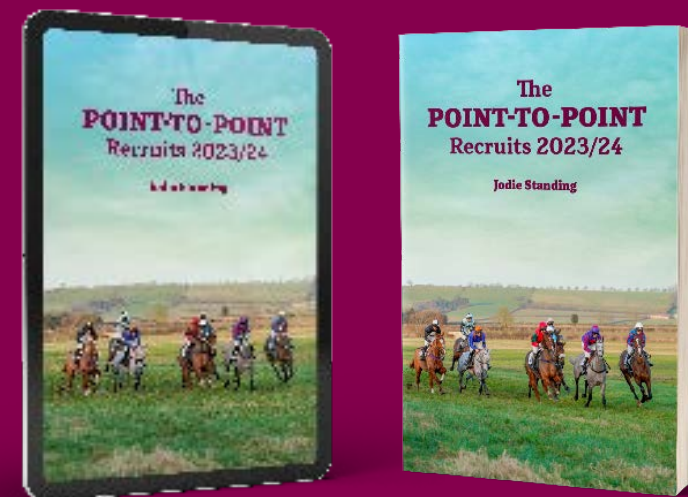

With many 'horses-to-follow' lists consisting of performers that are already in the public domain, this book goes one step further and highlights those that are generally unheard of. For example, last year's edition highlighted first-time-out winners Realisation (10/1 – Bangor, October), Man At Work (15/2 – Aintree, November), Dysart Enos (9/2 – Ludlow, November) and Doyen Star (5/2 – Chepstow, November) amongst many others.

Packed with Jodie's unique and original thoughts, she not only delves into the point-to-point form and its collateral lines, but also shares an in-depth view of how each horse races – offering her opinion on their characteristics and discussing what the future might hold.

Well-received by professionals and punters alike, this book is the ONLY hard copy publication in our Jumps portfolio!

FEATURES & EXTRACTS:

- A classy looking purchase to join Donald McCain – “This £80,000 purchase looks a stayer with a blend of natural pace. He could start over two miles around somewhere like Carlisle.”
- A talented winner that has joined Ben Brookhouse – “This gelding looks a proper honest galloper with a real will-to-win attitude. There's evidence in his pedigree to suggest he'll be effective over two miles, but he should improve for a step up to intermediate distances.”
- A relation to Mon Mome to join Venetia Williams – “Although bred to stay well, he clearly has tactical pace and could start over two miles before stepping up in trip. He's very likeable.”
- A hugely exciting prospect with Graded potential – “He looks to have the world at his feet and should have little problem making an impact in the bumper or two-mile hurdle division. He could be a Festival contender by spring.”
- A lovely long-term prospect purchased by Ruth Jefferson – “This gelding looks to have a touch of quality and ought to have a bright future as a chaser in time. For now, his class should ensure a successful time over obstacles through the winter.”
- A stoutly bred gelding from a hugely successful family – “He doesn't appear to have speed at his disposal but he seems to have the same wonderfully game temperament of the rest of his family. Given the strength in his physique, he could excel when the mud is flying.”
